DAHLIA VARIETIES

In colour the flowers range from vibrant pinks and crimsons, through rich hues of mauves and purples, to the pastel shades of lilacs, pinks and creams, in size from tiny pompons to huge exhibition blooms up to 30 cm or more across. Their various flower types (shown below) form the basis of the recognised groups.

Single

Each flower usually has 8 to 10 petals surrounding an open central disc.

Anemone

Fully double flowers each having one or more rings of flattened ray petals surrounding a dense group of shorter, tubular petals, usually longer than disc petals found in single dahlias.

Collerette

Single flowers each having broad, outer petals, usually 8 – 10 , and an inner 'collar' of small petals surrounding an open central disc.

Water Lily or Nymphaea

Fully double flowers having large generally sparse ray petals, which are flat or with slightly incurved or recurved margins, giving the flower a flat appearance.

Decorative

Fully double flowers having broad, flat petals that incurve slightly at their margins and usually reflex to the stem.

Ball

Flattened to spherical, fully double flowers having densely packed, almost tubular petals.

Pompon

Flattened to spherical, fully double flowers are no more than 5cm across – a miniature form of ball flowers.

Cactus

Fully double flowers having narrow pointed petals that can be straight or curl inwards and have recurved edges for more than two thirds of their length.

Semi Cactus

Fully double flowers are similar to cactus flowers but have broader based petals, the edges of which are generally recurved towards the tips.

Miscellaneous

Flowers are in a wide range of unclassified types, including orchid-like (shown right) single and double forms.
